

Founded in 1937, Birrfeld Airfield has developed into the most important air traffic and training center in the canton of Aargau. Its central location at the Zurich-Bern-Basel highway interchange, about 5 km south of Brugg, makes the airport a popular meeting place for pilots and visitors. The modern infrastructure, including an operations building, training and conference rooms, hangars, workshop, and paved runway, allows for professional, year-round flight operations in both gliding and powered flight. Birrfeld Airport is home to the Fliegerschule Birrfeld AG and various flying groups. Around 230 motor and glider aircraft, ranging from vintage planes to the most modern training aircraft, are based at Birrfeld.

For our maintenance operations, we are looking to hire immediately or by arrangement a

Aircraft Maintenance Engineer B1/B1.2 100%

YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Working as a licensed aircraft maintenance engineer on a fleet of small aircraft and their components
- Performing troubleshooting on in-service aircraft and on its systems
- Moving aircraft on the ground (ground handling, e.g. before and after a check)

OUR REQUIREMENTS:

- Holding an EASA B1/B1.2 license
- Professional knowledge of EASA regulations
- At least 2 years of professional experience as a licensed aircraft maintenance engineer in a Part-145, Part-CAMO or Part-CAO environment.
- Good knowledge of English language (written, read, spoken).
- Reliability, clean way of working and willingness to take responsibility
- Resilient, team-oriented and committed personality
- Structured, independent work style
- Well-groomed, friendly and competent appearance
- Knowledge and experience in Microsoft Office Software
- Knowledge and experience in any aviation MRO software is desirable
- Driving license (CAT B)

WHAT WE OFFER:

- In our modern workshop at Birrfeld Airfield, we offer you excellent working conditions in a dynamic, motivated team of professional aircraft mechanics and engineers.
- Exciting tasks await you at one of the most beautiful airfields in Switzerland, where people work and pursue their passion.
- Very good development opportunities in the field of various technical training courses with the appropriate motivation
- Possibility of discounted training as a private pilot in our own flight school

For more information about this position, please contact Jozsef Strasszer on +41 56 464 20 73.

We look forward to receiving your complete application with a letter of motivation to personal@birrfeld.ch.